International Society for Air Breathing Engines

The International Society for Air Breathing Engines (ISABE) is an organization that was formed to further the free exchange, on an international level, of knowledge in the field of airbreathing propulsion for flight vehicles. ISABE has national representatives from more than 25 nations and holds events on six continents.

For more than 40 years, ISABE has produced some of the most memorable and important conferences in the field of airbreathing propulsion. The Society produces a major conference every two years with invited lectures, contributed technical paper sessions, pre-arranged sessions, special forums and social events for informal discussions, networking and relaxation.

ISABE Objectives

- To encourage research and participation in the field of airbreathing propulsion...
- To participate in international projects of development in the field of airbreathing engines
- To organize an International Conference on Airbreathing Engines every two years

ISABE Governance

ISABE is governed by its Board of Directors, which is composed of executive officers, including President, Vice-President, two Joint Secretaries, Treasurer and Immediate Past-President to ensure continuity of operations, and the primary delegates (and their alternates) of member nations.
